

31 MARCH 2009

St Paul's Cathedral

My word is my bond? Rebuilding trust - the G20 and beyond

TUESDAY 31 MARCH, 11AM - 12.30PM
DOORS OPEN AT 9.00AM

On the eve of the G20, St Paul's is hosting a high level debate about the moral questions raised by the dramatically changing world we find ourselves in.

Can opportunities for society's good come from the economic crisis? Has there been a disconnection between morality, policy-making and practice? What are the prospects for remaking the global order, rebuilding financial systems and re-establishing trust? How will a new global order actively include development goals and address climate change?

Those on the platform will include a very senior member of the Cabinet, and the debate will be open to questions from the audience.

Doors open at 9am. Members of the public are invited to attend this event. Because it is a high-security event, no one will be admitted without photo ID in the form of passport or driver's license, and no large bags, rucksacks or suitcases can be brought into the cathedral. Please be prepared to have your bags searched.

This event is the first in the St Paul's Institute 2009 major programme, Money, Integrity and Wellbeing, which continues in the autumn with further public debates, services, study days and a retreat.
